Next View Named as Inbound Logistics Top 100 Logistics IT Provider

Inbound Logistics is proud to honor Next View Software for innovative solutions empowering logistics and supply chain excellence

Orange, CA – Next View Software, an innovative leader in the supply chain software market, announced today that it has been named to the Inbound Logistics Top 100 Logistics IT Provider list for 2010.

“We are honored to be selected to the Inbound Logistics Top 100 Logistics IT Provider list. As an organization we constantly challenge ourselves to develop and deliver solutions aimed at helping our customers achieve a measurable competitive advantage whether that is in terms of labor productivity, warehouse operations or supply chain visibility. We are pleased that the editors of Inbound Logistics recognize our ability to deliver solutions that address the needs of their readers,” said Steve Simmerman, Business Development leader for Next View Software, Inc.

“Every April for the past 15 years, Inbound Logistics editors have recognized 100 logistics IT companies that support and enable logistics and supply chain excellence. Next View Software was recognized by Inbound Logistics editors for leading the way in 2010. Editors sought to match readers’ fast-changing needs to the capabilities of those companies selected. Next View Software excels at providing solutions that drive supply chain excellence and answer Inbound Logistics readers’ need for simplicity, ROI, and efficient implementation. Inbound Logistics is proud to honor Next View Software for innovative solutions empowering logistics and supply chain excellence,” Felecia Stratton, Editor, Inbound Logistics.

“During these difficult economic times, we continue to focus our efforts and solutions on helping our customers improve their supply chain operations in terms of labor, inventory and space. Next View’s on-demand software solutions are geared toward helping our customers save money, improve performance and to leverage these improvements for years to come. We fully support Inbound Logistics readers’ need for solutions that deliver clear ROI in a simple and efficient manner,” continued Simmerman. “We are happy to be selected as a Top 100 Logistics IT Provider and to helping Inbound Logistics readers achieve their business and supply chain improvement objectives through the use of our on-demand software and services.”
